Well we hope we have your attention now. If you didn't see the first issue, we suggest you find one. Our intent was to stimulate your emotions and force you to look at things in a different way. There are too many problems on this campus, in the community, and in our society that are being ignored and brushed under the carpet. We cannot hide these problems; we face them everyday. Apathetic attitudes get us nowhere. Let's get off our asses and be heard. This is our campus, our education, and our lives paid for with our money, so let our rules be known. Write to our paper, the Antilope. -Staff

The CONSTITUTION of the United States

Amendment I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

And what is good, Phaedrus,
And what is not good—
Need we ask anyone to tell us these things?

WHAT I LIVED FOR

I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what I had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived. I did not wish to live what was not life, living is so dear; nor did I wish to practise resignation, unless it was quite necessary. I wanted to live deep and suck out all the marrow of life, to live so sturdily and Spartan-like as to put to rout all that was not life, to cut a broad swath and shave close, to drive life into a corner, and reduce it to its lowest terms, and, if it proved to be mean, why then to get the whole and genuine meanness of it, and publish its meanness to the world; or if it were sublime, to know it by experience, and be able to give a true account of it in my next excursion. For most men, it appears to me, are in a strange uncertainty about it, whether it is of the devil or of God, and have somewhat hastily concluded that it is the chief end of man here to "glorify God and enjoy him forever."

WE DEMAND!!!!!!!

- We demand all overweight people on campus exercise at least 3 times a week
- We demand the campus administration to help make this place an institute of higher leaning or step down from office
- We demand the penises be placed back on the bell tower
- We demand that before this campus becomes a University, it first become a college
- We demand that the library stocks up on more up to date information
- We demand the administration release and print statistics on campus date rape
- We demand Student Health to set up other locations around campus where condoms will be distributed before the S.T.D. rate gets any higher
- We demand healthier food and beverages be served at the Sports and Health complex
- We demand that the administration publishes their salaries.

If you support the Anti revolution then let yourself be known by clipping the ever-watching Anti eyes and proudly display them on your door or bookbag so other people's eyes are opened.

The laws of God, the laws of man,
He may keep that will and can;
Not I: Let God and man decree
Laws for themselves and not for me;
And if my ways are not as theirs
Let them mind their own affairs.
Their deeds I judge and much condemn,
Yet when did I make laws for them?

Dances With Wolves

I am fortunate to have already seen this motion picture before reading the Can'toplos last week. Dances With Wolves, reaches far beyond "great" acting and "good" subtitles, but, nice try Ken. So far beyond, in fact, as to give the first accurate depiction of the cultural genocide of our entire Native American Indian population. With passionate care, the true account of the Lakota Sioux Tribe is retold, as it was on the brink of the white man's selfish destruction.

Dances With Wolves, staring and directed by the genius of Kevin Costner, opens on the battlegrounds of the Civil War. Costner, playing Lieutenant John Dunbar, painfully pulls a heavy boot over his wounded foot in a fit of hopelessness and rides away. He suicidally close to the enemy lines in complete desperation. This act, taken by the onlooking general as heroic, distracts the enemy and gives the Union a victory. In reward, Dunbar's foot is saved and he is given privilege to any assignment.

Dunbar heads for the frontier where the story takes root as he finds his outpost deserted. In the untamed wild, Dunbar makes contact with the Native Sioux Indians and cautiously, a friendship begins to form.

The movie successfully demonstrates the vast contrast between the calm, gentle disposition of the Native people, and the harsh inhumanity of the white man. I was able to observe the strong stewardship the Indians showed for the land and all living creatures. How their lives were a constant display of worship toward family and community, which is woven deeply into Mother Earth's web of life.

With tears in my eyes, I grimaced as I observed the mindless waste, and destructive mentality of the white man. Graphically displayed was the beginnings of selfish quest to rape the earth of its natural and delicate evolution, with no regard for her faithful caretakers.

Once there lived a village of creatures along the bottom of a great crystal river. The current of the river swept silently over them all- young and old, rich and poor, good and evil, the current going its own way, knowing only its own crystal self. Each creature in its own manner clung tightly to the twigs and rocks of the river bottom, for clinging was their way of life, and resisting the current what each had learned from birth. But one creature said at last, "I am tired of clinging. Though I cannot see it with my eyes, I trust that the current knows where it is going. I shall let go, and let it take me where it will. Clinging, I shall die of boredom." The other creatures laughed and said, "Fool! Let go, and that current you worship will throw you tumbled and smashed across the rocks, and you will die quicker than boredom!" But the one heeded them not, and taking a breath did let go, and at once was tumbled and smashed by the current across the rock. Yet in time, as the creature refused to cling again, the the current lifted him free from the bottom, and he was bruised and hurt no more. And the creatures, to whom he was a stranger, cried, "See a miracle! A creature like ourselves, yet he flies! See the Messiah, come to save us all!" And the one carried in the current said, I am no more a Messiah than you. The river delights to lift us free, if only we dare let go. Our true work is this voyage, this adventure. But they cried the more, "Savior!" all the while clinging to the rocks, and when they looked again he was gone, and they were left alone making legends of a Savior.

RICHARD BACH

A review of Dances With Wolves would not be complete without a voice from the culture who unjustly suffered to put it on film. It became immediately apparent that the strong devotion to the family in the Lakota tradition had not changed when Alice Little Moon proudly announced all her family members; including husband Francis, daughter Rosemary and their three grandchildren. "It was a wonderful movie!" according to Alice, "The shortest three hours I've ever spent!" She went on to describe the credibility of Dances With Wolves, telling of their deep respect for their people and caution not to impose, or tell people what to do. Alice summed up the film by simply describing it as an "intense, real experience" and Francis, in a more solemn tone, informed me how the movie had captured their tribes' customs and language down to the smallest detail. All the actors were Lakota, according to Francis. He gave me details about his tribes once vast lands in north Dakota which are now only a memory.

Dances With Wolves has more than a "special magic that is captivating." It is a unique mirror to the past which history behooves all white men to reflect on their selfish destructive ways and learn a timeless lesson from the genuine, gentle spirit of our Native Americans.

As I left the theatre, I was speechlessly reflecting on the intense contrast between the respect of the Indians and the selfishness of the white man. Faced with our bleak concrete surroundings, it was overwhelmingly apparent to me that nothing has changed.

FROM THE BOX

RIGHT HEADS IT'S TIME TO ROLL
Just say how we are THEE kidding? Just say, FUCK TONI! We've allowed ourselves to be oppressed and literally let on by the insensitive, butt-fucking products of this community and country. We are going to stand for this! FUCK NO!! Get up and take your position and let the fuck up.
[I'm] to change stuff and to change, only [I want] know how you feel and how things are going to change.

THE SECTION

Dear Anti-Lope,

I'm writing in to your SECTION column and am hoping you will print my article. I don't have a question but rather a message for everyone. Recently I contracted the STD gonorrhea here in Kearney. Luckily I caught it in time and got it treated. I also want to say I rarely, if ever, use condoms before this happened, but have changed my way since I got it. I just figured "it couldn't happen to me," not here in a small town in mid-Nebbraska, but the sad thing is, that it did. It could also happen to anyone else here. I urge everyone to use condoms, it could save you a lot of pain, maybe even your life.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
A concerned
student at KSC

PS it also want to say
I loved your paper
and just the fact that it handles sexual issues
unlike the other so called "Newspapers."

We don't need to respond! you said it all-STAFF to the stuff in the Anti-Lope - long live the Anti-Lope

I love what you have done
I really believe it's time someone stood up and talked about the real issues - The only reason I love the Antelope is to check the beer specials for Thursday night!
Yes - I do know the meaning of "Carpe Diem" and your paper opened my eyes that that is exactly what I haven't been doing.

I agree with everything you said - even though a lot of it applies to me. Too many people on this campus are afraid to grow up and move on. We're all stuck in high school mode.

The only thing I find wrong with this paper is that the circulation wasn't wide enough. I only found out about this from a friend who received one. Keep it up - I'm waiting for the next issue -

We enjoyed every article except the ones that weren't written.

Jim took down,
 "I'd like to commend you all on taking a stand and facing a step I get your regard. There are many things out at that need to be changed; democratic rule is wrong, against it out of the classroom, in action, and so on. It's good to finally get the masses thinking about their future and, more importantly, their present. It is good that our world and society is something that needs action now, not later.
 I'm glad someone is trying to make a difference."

On the other hand, I totally disagree with your comments concerning race, religion, experience, and town population. For example:

= "calls of the West, South, Caribbean, Frontiers
 = "We'll renew transcending small national divides Chiles
 = Book Big city time home here (translating 10/11)
 Although I am one of you, there are 2
 (1) who are not, and (2) who are, but I am afraid that no one wants to judge each category people on such narrow, manipulated beliefs. Maybe if it all supposed to be a game and I am one there are many who think I am a child who (you are from a small town, by the way, but am not necessarily offended because I don't give a shit what category you belong conveniently placed me in }

Although my thoughts are prone to conflict, it all leads down to individual thoughts and beliefs and everyone's right to express those own.
As Veterans once said, "I disapprove of what you say but will defend to the death your right to say it."

Keep Writing

Dear Anti-Loose adheres:
Thanks so much for the entire newsletter that you published this week. Even though I couldn't get a copy I was fortunate enough to read a copy before they were snatched up & thrown away
by the Censoring Pigs at Kearney State High School. Keep up the good work, but be careful, President Nesher & Big Brother are watching.

Dear Intl-Staff:

Your new last name is the best forcing thing that happened to this school of ours. "My perspective to you ..... I'm a five year liberal myself still wondering what the hell is going on so I'm going to do it myself. I want to do all the things I need to visit my MAJOR (Commercial) school as well as travel and see the world. I'm sorry I'm not getting personal about my problems. I'm after five year of study and working a shitty job. It's not like they're taking away from me, it's just that there in the time book because I talk too big all the time and they were not all arc majors. This law big named high school was a waste of time. I was a high school senior and now I realize I know one thing I am not leaving this place. I'm going to stay here and work my ass off. I'm not working or sticking shovels at the nearest K-mart. Keep playing

GOD. Everything in your paper I relate to so much my eyes are watering with satisfaction. Keep it up. When I'll come across something juicy I will send it to you.
